MARCH 2007

Gender and Women's Degree Offered

The Gender and Women's Studies Department has announced the addition of a bachelor of arts in gender and women's studies (GWST) beginning in the fall semester of 2007. The program currently offers an undergraduate minor and a certificate in the field. AASU is one of only three public universities in the state to offer a bachelor's in the field.

The addition of the degree will enable AASU to offer a sustained course of study that draws upon various perspectives of human experience in areas as diverse as literature, history, art, political science, sociology, and psychology.

Student demand for gender and women's studies classes has been strong. Since the approval of the minor and certificate in 2000, 15 students have graduated with the GWST minor. Every single introductory level class offered has been filled to capacity. Instructors who offer courses in other disciplines that are approved for the GWST program report the same trend. The societal need for the major is reflected in the student body of AASU, which is 68.8 percent female. A major in Gender and Women's Studies brings a breadth of focus not available in many traditional undergraduate degrees.

3 Days for AASU '07

3 Days for AASU '07 is scheduled for March 27-29. This campaign provides an opportunity for the business community to contribute to the annual fund of Armstrong Atlantic. Community business leaders, Padgett Mixon and Janice Woods, will chair this year's campaign. The goal is $250,000. For more information or to volunteer, contact Gail Rountree in the Office of External Affairs at rountrga@mail.armstrong.edu or 927.5208.

On-line Scholarly Journal to be Edited at AASU

The Executive Committee of the Academy of Economics and Finance has announced that the on-line refereed scholarly journal, The Journal of Economics and Finance Education, will be edited by Richard Cebula and Richard McGrath, economics, and housed at Armstrong Atlantic. Cebula is co-founder of the journal.

The journal is one of the most respected refereed scholarly journals dealing with issues of pedagogy in the fields of economics and finance.

Give for the Gulf

Give for the Gulf will make another spring break trip from March 11-16 to Pearlington, MS to aid those in need. The project is looking for volunteers who would like to make a difference in someone else's life, as well as their own. For more information, contact Alice Adams at adamsali@mail.armstrong.edu or 713.5420.

AASU to Host Annual High School Math Tournament

More than 400 students from some 30 high schools in Georgia and South Carolina are expected to participate in Armstrong Atlantic's 29th annual High School Math Tournament on Saturday, March 3. The competition will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

"The finest math students from each state will participate in the two-part competition," said Dale Kilhefner, professor of mathematics. "The tournament encourages a more challenging and competitive interest in math among high-achieving students from the region's high schools."

AASU's Department of Mathematics and the School of Computing co-sponsor the event. For more information, contact Dale Kilhefner at kilhefda@mail.armstrong.edu or 921.2056.

AASU Career Fair

The Office of Career Services will host a career fair on Thursday, March 8, in the Armstrong Center from noon to 4 p.m. The faculty is encouraged to participate by bringing their classes to learn about the many internship, coop and employment opportunities available to students. If you know of interested students, encourage them to attend this event to meet with numerous employers from the public and private sectors. Professional dress is required.

A list of participating employers is listed at www.sa.armstrong.edu/careerservices.

AASU Offers Semester Abroad in Siena, Italy

AASU will offer a study abroad program in Siena, Italy during the 2007 fall semester that runs from September 23 to November 16, and includes academic excursions to Florence, Milan, Rome, and Venice. The program is open to all AASU undergraduate students in any discipline.

Students will be able to take a full-semester workload during the program by enrolling in up to five three-credit-hour courses over a seven-week period; the first week of the program will immerse students in historical and cultural tours of Rome and Florence.

The cost of $7,872 includes roundtrip airfare, housing, and excursions to Rome, Florence, and Venice. Application deadline is Friday, March 23, at 5 p.m. For more information, visit www.healthscience.armstrong.edu/StudyAbroad/ss/index.html.

Have a Heart – An Act of Kindness for Savannah's Homeless

In cooperation with Savannah's Union Mission, the AASU Staff Advisory Council is sponsoring the second annual spring service project by requesting donations of clothing, bedding, and toiletries for homeless people in our community. Special emphasis is being placed on items for men who are often overlooked. Donations will be accepted for women and children as well. Donation boxes have been placed in every building and will be available until March 15. For more information, contact Peggy Williams at williape@mail.armstrong.edu or 921.5991.

Week of the Young Child Conference

The Week of the Young Child Conference, sponsored by the Department of Early Childhood Education, will be held on Friday, March 30 from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Armstrong Center. The keynote speaker, Annette Lamb, is a national educational technology leader, web site author (eduscapes.com), professor of education, former school library media specialist, and author. Seating is limited, and registration is required. For additional information or to register, call 927.5281.

Armstrong Atlantic Earns Four Awards in Two Recent Peer Competitions

The university won three awards from the Savannah Advertising Federation and one from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education.

- The undergraduate viewbook won a Silver Addy and an Outstanding Achievement Award, one of the federation's four special Addy Awards. The publication provides information to prospective students on all aspects of the university.

Melanie Mirande and Joe Crain, formerly in the Office of Recruiting, wrote the viewbook. It was designed by Anna de la Paz and photographed by Katherine Arntzen in the Office of University Relations.

- Compass Interactive (www.ci.armstrong.edu), the university's broadband channel of streaming video, also won a Silver Addy. Bruce Habersham, in the Office of Computer and Information Services, produces Compass Interactive.
- The Council for Advancement and Support of Education presented an Award of Excellence for the university's external newsletter, Compass. Competition was open to all colleges and universities in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Compass reaches more than 24,000 AASU alumni and friends of the university. The newsletter is produced in the Office of University Relations. Barry Ostrow is the editor and principal writer. The publication is designed by Joan Lehon and photographed by Katherine Arntzen.

This past December, AASU-Liberty Center entered its first float in the annual Christmas Parade sponsored by the City of Hinesville. The theme of the parade was "Fairy Tales." In keeping with this theme, the float, proudly decked out in Armstrong Atlantic colors, displayed the slogan: "Getting Your Degree at AASU-Liberty Center is No Fairy Tale," and included students in caps and gowns passing out candy to the crowd. Ron Collins, AASU-Liberty Center, coordinated the effort with help from students.

The Parkersburg Garden Club has established a scholarship for a science student. This award was established in honor of Philip Schretter in plant operations. The garden club has enjoyed lectures in the arboretum and visits to the AASU campus on several occasions. For more information on this scholarship, contact the Office of External Affairs at 927.5263.

The Exchangettes Club of Savannah recently visited with President Thomas Z. Jones to present scholarship awards to two students, Juanita Sapwell, pre-pharmacy major, and Lindsey Toole, a music education major. The Exchangettes stated that it was their intention to make these scholarships a part of their annual program.

Leah Fiorentino, college of education, B. Ann Boyce, University of Virginia, and Jackie Lund, Georgia State University, presented "Ethical dilemmas in higher education," at the National Association for Kinesiology and Physical Education in Higher Education in Clearwater Beach, FL, during January.

Michael Mahan, Ed Strauser, and Regina Rahimi, middle grades & secondary education, presented "Out of the Ivory Tower and Into the Trenches: Case Study of Taking a Year's Leave to Again Teach in the Middle Grades Classroom," at the Symposium on Middle Level Teacher Preparation in Destin, FL in February. The topic addressed the possibilities of reciprocal teaching of university and P-12 faculty.

Annette Wilson, middle grades & secondary education, participated at a conference sponsored by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia on development and training held in Macon in January. The training focused on the course "EDUC 2120-Socio-Cultural Perspectives on Diversity." Wilson also attended the workshop "Using Understanding by Design as a Framework for Curriculum Development," held at Columbus State University's Center for Quality Teaching and Learning in Columbus in February to fulfill requirements for the AASU Academic Service and Leadership grant. In February, Wilson was a representative at the sixth Southeastern Conference on Cross-Cultural Issues in Counseling and Education held at the Coastal Georgia Center in Savannah.

Brenda Logan presented "Strategies for Content Literacy," at the Georgia Council Teachers of English (GCTE) conference at Jekyll Island in February. Logan was also asked to serve on the GCTE executive board, and will represent the board in Chicago at the National Council Teachers of English Affiliate Leadership meeting in June. Logan presented "Writing Speeches in the Middle School Classroom" at the Georgia Middle School Association conference in February in Savannah.

Helen Taggart, nursing, and Susan Howell, St. Joseph's/Candler Health System, presented "Succession Planning for Nursing Leadership in a Magnet Environment," and moderated a panel discussion on "Chief Nursing Officers Fostering Evidence Based Practice at the Bedside" at the Sigma Theta Tau International, Region Seven conference in January in Savannah. Taggart was also interviewed for an article "Tai Chi Ch'uan: Gentle Relaxing Exercise" that was published in the February 2007 issue of the Coastal Senior.

José de Arimatéia da Cruz and Becky K. da Cruz, criminal justice, social & political science, presented "One Last Chance to Undue the Unrule of Law in Brazil: The Força Nacional Brasileira" at the tenth annual Conference of the Americas held at Armstrong Atlantic in February. Both also chaired and moderated several panels during the conference. More than 50 speakers from Georgia, South Carolina, New York, Argentina, Mexico, and Trinidad provided lectures and panel presentations. The Americas Council and the Office of International Education for the University System of Georgia sponsored the conference.

Richard Cebula, economics, and Gigi Alexander, a Ph.D. student at Clark University, wrote the lead article, "Determinants of Interstate Migration, 2000-2004," published in the Journal of Regional Analysis and Policy, Winter, 2006-7. Cebula and Luther Lawson, University of North Carolina, published "Teaching Effects of Direct Democracy on Voters" in the January 2007 issue of the Journal of Economics & Finance Education.

Cebula, Richard McGrath, economics, and student Katya Gubenko, will soon have their paper, "Preliminary Evidence on the Impact of Small Businesses on Fringe Benefit Availability," printed in the Journal of Global Business Issues. Cebula, and student Tatyana Zelenskaya, will publish, "Impact of Pollution Abatement on Employment," in a forthcoming issue of International Economics.

Bill Deaver, languages, literature & philosophy, presented "Teaching the Latin American Novel: Problems and Solutions" and Ana Torres, languages, literature & philosophy, presented "Bridging the Gap in Gender and Women's Studies: Latina vs. Latin American Women Writers" at the tenth annual Conference on the Americas held at AASU in February.

Sandy Streater, Bob LeFavi, Greg Wimer, along with students Steven Galles, and Brian Tuten, health sciences, had an article, "Use of Sports Supplements in Georgia Ninth Graders: An Optimal Time for Education," published in the Journal of the Georgia Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance.
